STRONG BOSTON TESTIMONIALS.
Geo. C. Goodwin & Co. Wholesale Drug,

Writings: "CAPILLARIS" is rapidly increasing in use with our customers, speak very highly of it, and we predict for it an immense sale as soon as the merits are made known to the public.

Yours Truly,
Geo. C. Goodwin & Co.

MR. T. HILL MANNING, Portland, Me. Sir:—One of your agents presented me with a bottle of your CAPILLARIS and urged me to try it. I thought I had been using the best of all remedies there were to be had, but I must say CAPILLARIS is my preference to them all. It stopped my hair from falling, renewed it, thickened and restored it to its natural gloss and color. I have recommended it to a number of my friends, who have tried it. They all speak of it in the highest terms. It being of so much merit, I feel that I ought to recommend it to the ladies and public, as I know it will give perfect satisfaction, and its merit can be seen by the hair without it.

Yours Truly,
T. HILL MANNING, Esq.,
31 Commercial St., Portland, Me.

The following business men all send the same statement.

MR. T. HILL MANNING, Portland, Me. Dear Sir:—I have been using your Compound "CAPILLARIS" for hair dressing. Am pleased to say that it has entirely cured me of all dandruff and itching of the scalp, keeping my hair clean and soft, and keeps my hair from falling out. I consider it an article of genuine merit, having no equal for the hair, therefore I take pleasure in recommending it to the public.

PLEASANT TRIP

OVER THE RUMFORD FALLS & BUCK-
FIELD RAILROAD.

FROM CANTON TO RUMFORD FALLS IN COACHES.

BRIEF SKETCH OF THE HISTORY OF THE ROAD.

IT HAS A PROMISING FUTURE IN STORE.

RAMBLING ACCOUNT OF WHAT THE REPORTER SAW AND HEARD.

Among the passengers who left this city on the Grand Trunk train at 9 o'clock Thursday morning, were the following:

Hon. W. L. Putnam, Mayor John W.
Deering, Gen. S. J. Anderson, Hon. S.
J. Anderson, Hon. S. C. Andrews, Hon.

Wm. G. Davis, Hon. George D. Bisbee, Judge Percival Bonney, W. H. Moulton, esq., A. F. Moulton, esq., S. L. Stephenson,

H. W. Richardson, editor of the Portland Advertiser, C. F. Whittier, special representative of the Press, and

E. S. Osgood of the Argus.

Of the gentlemen named above, Mr.
Putnam is President, and Mr. Andrews, Treasurer of the Rumford Falls & Buck-field Railroad, and the others of the party had responded to their invitation to take a trip over this branch road from

Mechanic Falls to Canton, and then by coaches go to Rumford Falls, and view the largest water power in New England.

This programme was carried out in the most agreeable manner, and the party arrived home about a quarter before 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. It will now be the reporter's pleasant task to give the readers of the Argus a brief account of the excursion, what was seen and heard and what a tip-top time everybody had.

The weather was delightful, and this always has a great deal to do with the enjoyment of any trip. Nobody can feel gay and light-hearted in cold, stormy weather. Then the increased pressure of the atmosphere weighs down upon him, and though he may whistle, laugh and sing, yet the merriment is in great measure forced, and lacks the cheerful tone that the bright sunlight alone can give.

Still when the coaches were rolling along the road from Canton to Rumford Falls, with the dust rising in thick clouds on all sides, and settling on one's hat and back in quantities sufficient to make him round shouldered, probably nobody present would have complained very bitterly if it had rained "great guns" in that section the day previous. But it is best not to anticipate. Let the story be told properly and in order.

At Danville Junction, the party was joined by Geo. C. Wing, Judge of the Probate Court at Auburn. He is a fine-looking, social gentleman and proved a most agreeable addition to the company.

Many were the laughable anecdotes he told to while away the time on that dusty ride to Rumford Falls.

On reaching Mechanic Falls, the party stepped from the Grand Trunk train, which a minute later went steaming on for Montreal, and its place in front of the station was taken by the special train of the Rumford Falls & Buckfield Railroad.

Here the party was increased by A. T.
Dennison, esq. of Mechanic Falls; Otis Hayford, esq. of Canton; H. O. Stanley, esq. of Dixfield; L. M. Bearce, esq. of Norway; and L. L. Lincoln, Superintendent of the road. As the majority of our readers know, Mr. Lincoln was formerly Superintendent of the Maine Central, and for the past four years was lessee and manager of the Bucksport branch road. When the Me. Central leased the Bucksport branch, last May, Mr. Lincoln accepted the offer of the Superintendency of the Rumford Falls & Buck-field Railroad.

He is a thorough railroad man, and is putting in lots of good work in his new position. He is very well informed and courteous, and gives information in a heartly, pleasant manner.

The train, consisting of engine, tender and one large, handsome passenger car, started from Mechanic Falls at 10:30 o'clock. It was run, Thursday, on a special time table, and every station was reached and left on the dot. The scenery through which this road passes is varied and beautiful. Ever and anon you catch a glimpse of sparkling brooks and shady groves, while away beyond rise the noble, tree-crowned hills. At this season of the year the landscape offers peculiar attractions. The foliage of the forests is more diversified, and over everything inanimate golden-haired Autumn stretches her many-tinted wand.

At the West Minot station if one looks sharply he may see a portion of Hebron Academy, one of those grand old temples of learning, which, alas! are gradually being supplanted by the high schools.

If the high school was a better educator of the boys and girls of Maine than the old academy, no one would say to the latter "go," quicker than the writer. But his experience as a scholar and teacher has convinced him that the reverse is true.

When the train reached Buckfield, 14 miles from Mechanic Falls, a halt of a minutes was made to permit the party to see the improvements going on at this station. So fast has the business of the road increased the past summer that it was found necessary to build a new local freight depot. The building is up and boarded, and will soon be ready for use.

Its dimensions are 60x24 feet and it will be a well built, convenient depot. The old freight depot has been given over to the exclusive use of the Hartford Cold Spring Company, as a place to store their barrels of water, prior to shipment. Another spring the passenger depot is to be moved back and a broad platform built between it and the track. Later the reporter will have something to say about the old town of Buckfield, but now must hurry on towards Canton.

Just beyond Buckfield station the train crosses the Nezinscot River, which is spanned by a fine iron bridge, which looks strong enough to stand for centuries.

At East Sumner station the train tarries a moment. Here one finds a large, handsome depot, convenient in arrangement, and well equipped for the business of the road. Here also one sees another pretty river. It is the east branch of the Twenty-Mile stream. The East branch and the Nezinscot unite below Buckfield village and form Twenty-Mile River. The latter empties into the Androscooggin.

The train rolls smoothly and swiftly on, and soon is passing across what once was a sheet of water a mile long and half a mile broad, with a depth averaging ten feet. This vast amount of water has been drained off, and now the train runs across on a road bed of solid gravel.

The cost of draining this pond was immense. And after that was done, owing to the spongy bottom, the task of building a firm road bed for a mile through the drained pond was almost equally expensive.

But just before reaching Canton the finest view along the whole line bursts upon the eye. This is Whitney Pond, which, as Mr. Andrews declares, is one of the handsomest sheets of water in Maine. For several minutes the train sweeps along its side and one can drink in the beauty of this crystal pond and its surroundings. It has a long beach of white sand on one side, and on the other are thick forests stretching away to the very tops of the lofty hills which seem to look down lovingly upon the pretty lakelet nestled at their feet. A charming grove to the left of the pond is a great resort for private parties from the surrounding villages. The Indian name of this sheet of water was Nassagunticook.

It takes the name of Whitney from a man who, years ago, was shot by his friends, they having mistaken him, in the dim morning light, for a hostile red man.

Canton station was reached at 11:35, just five minutes ahead of the special time table. Here two fine mountain coaches, each drawn by four powerful horses, were in readiness, and the party was soon en route for Dixfield, where dinner was to be taken. It was the Argus reporter's good fortune to occupy a seat with Hon. S. C. Andrews, whose boyhood days were passed in this section.

Mr. Andrews is thoroughly familiar with all the interesting features along the road through the towns of Peru, Dixfield, Mexico and Rumford, and his descriptive powers are first class. He pointed out the famous Herdsdale Farm, owned by Mr. Ward, a retired millionaire. This farm contains 1,500 acres. Twenty men are given steady employment on it. Mr.

Ward owns more than fifty blooded cows and upwards of one hundred swine of the best breeds. Himself a native of Maine, a chair builder by trade, Mr. Ward made his fortune in New York in the furniture business. He has now come back to his native State to spend his declining days in ease and comfort. He makes no money out of his great farm, nor does he care to. Last year the expenses of the farm were some $5,000 above the income from it, and the old man was perfectly satisfied. Well, why shouldn't he be? What is $5,000 a year to a man worth a clean million, and with, at the most, only a few years more to stay on top of the earth?

The road to Dixfield closely follows the course of the Androscooggin River. It passes through a fine farming country.

The houses and barns are well built and commodious. Evidences of prosperity are on each hand. But as the carriages rolled along it was noticed that many a goodly field of corn had been cruelly nipped by the frost. The apple crop in this section is light this year, judging from the appearance of the orchards passed. The Androscooggin is remarkably low. In some places it looked as if one could almost wade across.

At Brown's Ferry, in an adjacent field, the party noticed nearly an acre of sorghum, lifting tall, plumed stalks into the bright sunlight. To many of the company it was a strange sight, and several gathered some of the stalks to bring home.

The tall newspaper man was so anxious to get on the other side of the river, that, scorning the slow motion of the ferry, he sprang into a boat and with a few vigorous strokes grounded the craft on the soil of Dixfield. Had Hanlan seen this exhibition of proficiency with the oar, he would have trembled for his laurels.

After a brief rest and a most excellent dinner at the National House, Dixfield, we pushed on to Rumford Falls, seven miles farther up the river. These falls are well worth visiting. Within less than a mile the river make a descent of 163 feet through a rocky gorge averaging only about ninety feet wide. Here is more than twice the water power of Lowell, with unrivalled opportunities for the storage of water. Forty years ago, when the manufacturing corporations which have built up Auburn and Lewiston were looking for a location, their attention was attracted to Rumford Falls, but they were driven away by the exorbitant prices of the owners. Latterly, Mr. Pettingill of Rumford, has been buying all the riparian privileges, and it is thought that

Messrs. C. D. Brown and H. J. Chisholm, of this city, who drove over from Livermore, Thursday, are interested in these transactions. At the upper falls, the river is very narrow, and there it is proposed to build the dam. Natural butresses of rock in ledge form give a foundation on either side as solid as the hills.

Then the idea is to dig a canal and lead the water to the great mills which undoubtedly will before long be erected on this grand water privilege.

Returning, the party did not recross the river at Brown's Ferry, but kept on the west side. The scenery was if anything more pleasing than that on the opposite shore. Some of the finest intervalle farms to be seen in the State were passed just before Gilbertville station was reached. Gilbertville is a village in Canton, and is the upper terminal point of the Rumford Falls & Buckfield Railroad.

Here are located the chemical pulp mills of the Denison Paper Manufacturing Company, of Mechanic Falls, and the large mills of the Canton Steam Mill Company. These two large enterprises furnish a great amount of the freight of this railroad.

A ride of ten minutes in the train, brought the party to Canton station.
Supper was taken at the Sweeney House, and the party took the train for Buck-field where they passed the night. That evening in the office of the Buckfield

House, Hon. George D. Bisbee gave the newspaper men a very interesting sketch of the history of the road. Only a mere outline of his graphic account can be reproduced here. Virgil D. Paris, of Buckfield, was the original proprietor of this road, and though he lost nearly all his property in aiding the enterprise, he was ever a firm believer in its ultimate success. The road was chartered in 1847 to run from Lewiston to Canton, and opened from Mechanic Falls to Buckfield in 1849 or 1850. It was then known as the Buckfield Branch of the Atlantic & St. Lawrence Railroad, now the Portland

Division of the Grand Trunk. The road was built by local subscriptions, as was usual in those days. Under the law as it then stood, the shareholders were liable not only for their original subscriptions, but for as much more. Farmers and small traders who had subscribed $500 or $1000, were called upon to duplicate their subscriptions, and many were cri-pled or ruined by the exaction.

The late F. O. J. Smith advanced $30,- 000 on a mortgage of the road. In time the mortgage was foreclosed and the entire property came into his hands. Mr.

Smith proposed to extend the line northward into Franklin County. The towns north of Buckfield were invited to assist.

The line was to run through Sumner, Hartford, Canton, Jay and Wilton to Farmington. The towns voted money,

Newspaper Decisions.

1. Any person who takes a paper regularly from the office—whether he has subscribed or not—is responsible for the payment.

2. If a person orders his paper discontinued he must pay all arrears, or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made, and collect the whole amount, whether the paper is taken from the office or not.

3. The Office has decided that refusing to take newspapers and periodicals from the post office or removing and leaving them uncollected, is prima facie evidence of fraud.

THE COST OF A TRAIN.

At the time when the first open court of law was established in Russia, a lady, dressed with the utmost elegance, was walking on the Moscow promenade, leaning upon her husband's arm and letting the long train of her rich dress sweep the dirt of the street.

A young officer, coming hastily from a side street, was so careless as to catch one of his spurs in the lady's train, and in an instant a great piece was torn out of the costly, but frail material of the dress.

"I beg a thousand pardons, madam," said the officer with a polite bow, and then went about passing on, when he was detained by the lady's husband.

"You have insulted my wife."

"Nothing was farther from my intention, sir. Your wife's long dress is too blame for the accident, which I sincerely regret, and I beg you once more to receive my apologies for any carelessness on my part." Thereupon he attempted to hasten on.

"You shall not escape so," said the lady. "To-day is the first time I have worn this dress and it cost two hundred roubles which you must make good."

"My dear madame I beg you not to detain me. I am obliged to go on duty at once. As to the two hundred roubles,—I really cannot help the length of your dress, yet I beg your pardon for not having been more cautious."

"You shall not stir, sir. That you are obliged to be on duty is nothing to us. My wife is right; the dress must be made good."

The officer's face grew pale. "You force me to break through the rules of the service and I shall receive punishment."

"Pay the two hundred roubles and you are free."

The quickly changing color in the young man's face betrayed how inwardly disturbed he was; but stepping close up to them both he said, with apparent self-command:

"You will renounce your claim when I tell you that I am a poor man, who has nothing to live on but his officer's pay, and the amount of that pay hardly reaches the sum of two hundred roubles in a whole year. I can, therefore, make no amends for the misfortune, except by again begging your pardon."

"Oh, anybody could say all that; but we'll see if it is true; we'll find out if you have nothing but your pay. I declare myself not satisfied with your excuses, and I demand my money," persisted the lady, in the hard voice of a thoroughly unfeeling woman.

"That's true—you are right," the husband added dutifully supporting her. "By good luck we have the open court now in session. Go with us before the judge and he will decide the matter."

All protestations on the officer's part that he was poor, and was expected on duty and so forth did not help matters. To avoid an open scene he went with them to the court-room, where the gallery was densely packed with a crowd of people.

After waiting some time the lady had leave to bring her complaint.

"What have you to say to this," said the judge, turning to the officer, who seemed embarrassed, and half in despair.

"On the whole, very little. As the lateness of the hour, and being required on duty compelled me to hurry, I did not notice the lady's train which was dragging on the ground. I caught one of my spurs in it and had the misfortune to tear her dress. Madame would not receive any excuses, but perhaps she might find herself more disposed to forgiveness when I again declare that I committed this awkward blunder without any malicious intention, and I earnestly beg that she will pardon me."

A murmur ran through the gallery, evidently from the people taking sides with the defendant and against long trains in general, and the lady in particular.

The judge called to order and asked: "Are you satisfied with the defendant's explanation?"

"Not at all satisfied. I demand two hundred roubles in payment for my torn dress."

"Defendant will you pay this sum?"

"I would have paid it long before this had I been in a position to do so. Unfortunately I am poor. My pay as an officer is all I have to live on."

"You hear, complainant, that the defendant is not able to pay the sum you demand of him. Do you still wish the complaint to stand?"

"I wish it to stand. The law shall give me my rights."

There ran through the rows of people the murmur of indignation that sounded like a rushing of water.

"Consider complainant, the consequences of your demand. The defendant can be punished only through being deprived of his personal liberty, and by that you could obtain no satisfaction, while to the defendant it might prove the greatest injury in his rank and position as an officer who is dependent upon his pay. Do you still insist upon your complaint?"

"I still insist upon it."

The course the affair was taking seemed to have become painful to the lady's husband. He spoke with his wife urgently, but without effect. The judge was going on the further consideration of the case, when a loud voice was heard from the audience:

"I will place the two hundred roubles at the service of the defendant."

During the silence which followed a gentleman forced his way through the crowd and placed himself by the young officer's side, saying:

"Sir, I am the prince W—, and beg you will accept the loan of the two hundred roubles in question."

"Prince, I am not worthy of your kindness, for I don't know as I shall ever be able to pay the loan," answered the officer, in a voice tremulous with emotion.

"Take the money at all events. I can wait until you are able to return it." Thereupon the prince held out two notes of one hundred roubles each, and coming close to him whispered softly. There was a sudden lighting up of the officer's face. He immediately took the two notes, and turning to the lady, handed them to her with a polite bow.

"I hope, madame, you are satisfied."

With a malicious smile she reached out her hand for the money.

"Yes, now I'm satisfied."

With a scornful glance over the crowd of spectators she prepared to leave the room on her husband's arm.

"Stop, madame," said the officer, who had suddenly become like another man.

"What do you want?" said the lady, casting a look upon him as insulting as possible.

"I want my dress," he answered, with a slight still perfectly polite bow.

"Give me your address, and I will send it to you."

"Oh, no, my dear madame, I am in the habit of taking my purchases with me at once. Favor me with the dress immediately."

"Order," cried the judge.

"What an insane demand," said the lady's husband. "My wife cannot undress herself here."

"I have nothing to do with you in this matter, sir, but only with the complainant. Be so good as to give me the dress immediately, madame. My affairs are urgent."

The pleasure of the audience at the expense of the lady increased with every word.

"Do not jest any more about it. I will hurry and send you the dress as soon as possible."

"I am not jesting. I demand from the representatives of the law my own property—that dress," said the officer, raising his voice.

The judge, thus appealed to, decided promptly.

"The officer is right, madame. You are obliged to hand him over the dress on the spot."

"I can't undress myself here before all these people and go home without my dress on," said the young woman, with anger and tears.

"You should have thought of that sooner. Now that you have no time to lose, either give up your dress of your own accord, or—"

A nod that could not be misinterpreted brought to the lady's side, two officers of justice, who seemed about to take up on themselves the office of my lady's maid.

"Take your money back and leave me my dress."

"Oh, no, madame; that dress is now worth more than two hundred roubles to me."

"How much do you ask for it?"

"Two thousand roubles," said the officer, firmly.

"I will pay the sum," the weeping lady's husband responded, promptly. "I have here five hundred roubles. Give me a pen and paper and I will write an order upon my banker for the remaining fifteen hundred."

After he had written the draft the worthy pair withdrew, amid hisses from the audience.

WANTED TO APPEAL.

A lady stepped into the office of Justice Charles Walter of Washington, the other day, and handing him a paper said: "I want to appeal." The affable justice looked over the paper and remarked: "Madam, what do you appeal from?"

"I don't know," she said; "but everybody appeals." The paper was a statement of the assessment on her property from the assessor's office, and the amount had been greatly reduced from that of last year. When Justice Walter explained the matter of advantage she had gained, the lady departed, smiling and ejaculated, "I think I want appeal."

As we expected, the Louisville editor who signed the pledge now claims that the paper is null and void because it was dated on Sunday, and besides he was drunk when he signed it.

"I am happy to say," writes W. C. Morrill, 170 Tremont-st., Boston, "that Ella's Spavin Cure is the best in the market. It cured my horse of a large Bone Spavin, after other liniments, etc., had failed."

The stockbroker is disconsolate in these days if "no telephone communicates with his sell."

Absolutely the best Porous Plaster ever made. The Hop Plaster is composed of Fresh Pops, Balsams and Gums. Weak Back, Side Ache, Sore Chest, and all pains are speedily cured by its use. Apply one. Only 25c. at any drug store.

Make a politician of some tailors, and he will always be talking about men and measures.

Rheumatism is the most painful and the most troublesome disease that afflicts humanity. It comes when we least expect it, and when we have no time to be interviewed by it. The only reliable remedy that we ever found is Johnson's Anodyne Liniment.

Why is a wrinkled face like a well plowed field? Because it is furrowed with care, of course.

Popularity is defined to be "the state of being suitable to or beloved by the people." This is an exact description of the esteem in which Dr. Graves' Heart Regulator is held. It is a peerless, pleasant, popular, and certain cure for heart disease, nervousness and sleeplessness.

What is the difference between a dull razor and a bad boy? None; for they both need strapping.

I CAN recommend Ely's Cream Balm to all Hay Fever sufferers. It being, in my opinion, founded upon expert science and a sure cure. I was afflicted with Hay Fever for twenty-five years, and never before found permanent relief.—Webster H. Haskins, Marshfield, Vt.

As an illustration of the care required to run a circus, even the cars in which it is moved have to be trained.

ON THIRTY DAYS' TRIAL. THE VOLTAIC BELT Co., Marshall, Mich., will send Dr. Dyer's celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belt and Electric Appliances on trial for thirty days to men (young or old) who are afflicted with nervous debility, lost vitality and kindred troubles, guaranteeing speedily and complete restoration of health and manly vigor. Address as above. N. B.—No risk is incurred, as thirty days' trial is allowed.

The eye is sometimes called the window of the soul; consequently a black eye must be a stained window.

Hood's Sarsaparilla. Is designed to meet the wants of those who need a medicine to build them up, give them an appetite, purify their blood, and oil up the machinery of their bodies. No other article takes hold of the system and acts so quickly and so completely as Hood's Sarsaparilla. It works like magic, reaching every part of the human body through the blood, giving it all renewed life and energy. $1 a bottle; six for $5.

Matches are now so cheap that the man who borrows your pipe and tobacco would scorn to ask for a match also.

TIME TO STOP IT. It's too bad, Sir or Madam, but don't get frightened. Your hair is falling off—that's certain. A glance in the mirror, or an investigating committee of fingers tell the dismal story. We won't discuss the possible cause. It is enough that Parker's Hair Balsam used now will prevent further destruction. Is your hair somewhat gray, too, and crisp? Alas, yes. The Balsam will give back the original color, softness and gloss. Not a dye, not oily, elegantly perfumed, a perfect dressing.

When a woman is seen chasing a street-car it is a certain sign that she has an ambition to mount the platform.

SOME FOOLISH PEOPLE. Allow a cough to run until it gets beyond the reach of a medicine. They often say, "Oh, it will wear away, but in many cases it wears them away. Could they be induced to try the successful medicine called Kemp's Balsam, which we sell on a positive guarantee to cure, they would immediately see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Price 50c. and $1.00; trial size free. Respectfully, A. M. GERRY, So. Paris.

Colorado has no "Sleepy Hollows," but has plenty of material for such a place. Its mountains are full of Can-yaws.

CHICAGO'S FIRST CITIZEN. The Chicago Tribune, in closing an elaborate article on Hon. Carter H. Harrison, Mayor of that city, gives the following as Mr. Harrison's opinion of St. Jacobs Oil: "When I first found myself suffering from the rheumatism, my leading thought naturally was to call a physician, but my neighbors all advised me to try St. Jacobs Oil, the Great German Remedy. I procured some of it immediately, and found it excellent for that ailment."

An English magazine is speculating as to "the kind of clothes ghosts wear." We always supposed they wore spirit wrappers.

TRUTH STRANGER THAN FICTION. Read, ponder and profit thereon. Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs is conceded by all who have used it to excel any preparations in the market as a complete Throat and Lung Healer. All persons afflicted with that dreadful disease—Consumption—will find speedy relief, and in a majority of cases a permanent cure. The proprietor has authorized A. M. Gerry to refund the money to any party who has taken three-fourths of a bottle without relief. Price 50c. and $1.00; trial size free.

A savant has discovered that man descended from the bear. We have heard before that man descended from the bear, and have been shown the trees where it occurred.

The fact that good health, strong muscles and sound nerves are attainable, should encourage every invalid to an earnest endeavor in the right direction. Remember all disease owes its origin more or less to a lack of iron in the blood. Iron in the blood means health, strength, and vigor. Analyze the blood of an invalid and little or no iron will be found. Healthy men's blood is full of iron. The best method of supplying this lack of iron is by using Brown's Iron Bitters, a sure cure for dyspepsia, general debility, weakness and all wasting diseases.
